Adoption is all about giving a loving home to a child who otherwise cannot have such a home for various reasons.

Clackmannanshire Council Social Services can give advice and guidance to you if you wish further information on the adoption processes.

Adoption is all about you taking on the rights and responsibilities which would usually be held by the birth parents. The adopted child takes the name of the adoptive family.

- You need to be at least 21 in order to adopt.
- Applications can be accepted from married couples, couples in a civil partnership, or single people.
- If you have lived together for three years or more and are not married or in a civil partnership, you may also apply.
- You may be childless or you may already have children.

There are very few young babies awaiting adoption, but there are older children and groups of brothers and sisters who need adoptive families.

Very few of the children placed for adoption today are 'straightforward', and adopters must be willing to accept a number of complicated background factors which will contain elements of risk in terms of the child's future development.
